JAMES M. READ
President, Wilmington College

The following statement of Principles and Goals has now been formally adopted by the Faculty, Board of Trustees and Student Senate of WILMINGTON COLLEGE.

(Any statement of principles and goals will of necessity embody a number of unrealized objectives. This statement does, however, reflect the principles to which we strive to adhere, and the goals to which we aspire.)

Education at Wilmington College is planned to reflect Judeo-Christian values, particularly as interpreted through Quaker experience. It is shaped with consideration for the needs and interests of the local community as part of a world community.

Responding to a time of great changes and a world of large demands, Wilmington College chooses to emphasize a liberal arts approach. In keeping with a belief in the importance of the individual, its goal is to cultivate rounded persons and responsible citizens.

The mark of its success will be students with an alert intellect dedicated to truth, a mature spirit devoted to goodness, and a sensitive outlook attuned to beauty. From experience in self-help, many of these students will come to know first-hand the meaning of initiative and independence.

It is hoped that they will possess a personal faith deep enough to respect the contrary views of others and will live and act in the light of their best insights but be ever willing to search and question, test and prove.

Such students will have more than personal goals. They will be prepared to express through church and community, locally or in a broader sphere, their belief in the divine-human nature of society. They will show commitment to purposes larger and more enduring than personal objectives by their service to others and their active concern for a world of peace and freedom. For such commitment they will learn an inner discipline for the conduct of life.

Within the framework of liberal education, Wilmington College expects to give students some chance to focus on at least one selected field. This concentration provides a place for students to plant their feet and encourages the discipline of sustained search. They should achieve some vocational competence or the foundation for further specialized training. They should learn to respect manual as well as intellectual skills.

They should recognize that true equality of opportunity opens the way for development of differing talents in themselves and others, and that true simplicity leads to respect for all branches of constructive endeavor.

Students will not go unaided in their quest. They will have the counsel and guidance of dedicated teachers who see the value of scholarship in human as well as academic terms. Wilmington College hopes that the quality of its teaching and the example of its teachers will inspire its students with a goal of excellence. They may then develop patterns of work, play, study and worship that will enable them to fulfill their potential for themselves and society.

At Wilmington College during a period of less than two decades hundreds of young men and women have learned the values of hard work and self-reliance as they have, with their own hands, built parts of eleven major buildings on this campus.

They have helped build their college for future generations of Wilmingtonians they may never know, while earning the tuition necessary for a high quality education. They have labored in the factories, hospitals, laboratories, business establishments and on the farms of this community as participants in the nationally known Wilmington work-study program.

A miracle of transformation has occurred because Wilmington College believes deeply in five fundamental values of the human spirit. These are as follows:

A PASSION FOR EXCELLENCE

Wilmington believes that its students are entitled to the finest inheritance of the scholastic community but it also believes that they must exert themselves in order to win this birthright.

SIMPLICITY

This is a talent for making the most of the least. It is the art of leading an uncluttered and unconfused life. It is the attitude of placing reliance on the internal qualities of character and judgment rather than on the externals of comfort and material accumulation.

INTEGRITY

This is the ability not only to think truth but to live it as well. It is the capacity to translate ideas into deeds. It means the responsibility of the individual, before God and man, for his own life and acts.

SELF-RELIANCE

This is the liberating spirit of freedom that unchains a man from dependence upon paternalism wherever it is found. It is this same spirit which motivated the American pioneer to conquer the unclaimed frontier.

CONCERN FOR SERVICE

This is the human necessity which Jesus of Nazareth understood so well when He proclaimed, "Whosoever would be first among you must be the willing servant of all."

The miraculous development of Wilmington College is still taking place. The college will complete its First Century of Service in 1970.

Most educational experts agree that by the year of Wilmington's centennial anniversary there will be twice as many young Americans seeking admission to colleges as there were just a decade earlier, in 1960.

A carefully developed study has indicated, therefore, that if Wilmington College is to assume its share of responsibility for these oncoming generations of Americans, the institution will need to acquire, in the next ten years, resources valued at seven and one-half million dollars. Those needs believed to be most urgent by its Board of Trustees in keeping with the Wilmington tradition of simplicity are delineated as follows:

Physical facilities	$3,475,000
Scholarships, faculty salaries, contingencies	1,225,000
Perpetual trusts and endowment	2,400,000
Academic development and research	400,000
	$7,500,000

In the past fifteen years the net worth of Wilmington has miraculously increased more than five times. The spirit which wrought this miracle is a continuing one; it will provide the impulse which will assure success as the college prepares for its Second Century of Service.

It has also won the support of many of America's greatest spiritual, political and industrial leaders, including Grover M. Hermann who has now become a part of the Wilmington miracle.

Dr. James M. Read
President
Wilmington College
Wilmington, Ohio

Dear Dr. Read:

This will serve as a confirmation of . . . the availability of a grant from me of $740,000 for the Wilmington College Centennial Fund to be used for:

(a) The building of a physical education center to be known as Hermann Court, and

(b) The removal of the existing gymnasium building, tennis courts, and houses on the site of the future mall, with landscaping and improvements required for the subsequent development of the mall.

This sum is intended as a "Challenge Gift" made available on the condition that the "challenge" will be met by other contributors' pledges substantially totalling $1,510,000.

Sincerely,

Grover M. Hermann

Grover M. Hermann

(At the Sept. 20, 1963, announcement of the $740,000 Grover M. Hermann Challenge Gift, the following telegram was read to a gathering of board members, faculty, administration and other friends of the college.)

DR. JAMES M. READ—
PRESIDENT, WILMINGTON COLLEGE, WILMINGTON, OHIO—

TO WILMINGTON COLLEGE BOARD OF TRUSTEES AND FRIENDS OF THE COLLEGE:

I AM FULLY AWARE THAT THE STEP YOU ARE TAKING TODAY IS MERELY THE BEGINNING OF A NEW DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM FOR WILMINGTON COLLEGE AND THAT IT WILL REQUIRE THE GENEROUS SUPPORT OF THOSE WHO REALIZE THE IMPORTANT ROLE OF THE SMALL COLLEGE IN THE FIELD OF CHRISTIAN HIGHER EDUCATION. I FIRMLY BELIEVE THAT THE FUTURE OF OUR COUNTRY IS DEPENDENT UPON AN EDUCATED CITIZENRY WITH INTEGRITY, CONVICTION, AND CONSTRUCTIVE AMBITION. THE WILMINGTON COLLEGE PROGRAM IS DEDICATED TO THE DEVELOPMENT OF THAT KIND OF CITIZENRY. THEREFORE, I AM HAPPY TO GIVE MY FINANCIAL SUPPORT. IT IS AN EXPRESSION OF MY DESIRE TO SEE THE COLLEGE CONTINUE TO ADVANCE ITS SERVICE TO THE YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN WHO BELIEVE IN AND PRACTICE THE CONCEPT OF PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY. MY INTEREST IN WILMINGTON AND WILLINGNESS TO ASSIST ARE ALSO FURTHERED BY MY KNOWLEDGE OF YOUR REMARKABLE RECORD OF GROWTH AND ACCOMPLISHMENT AND BY MY BEING CONFIDENT THAT WILMINGTON COLLEGE WILL CONTINUE TO LEAD THE WAY IN EDUCATING MEN AND WOMEN FOR ROLES OF LEADERSHIP AND SERVICE WHEREVER THEY MAY BE. "WISDOM IS THE PRINCIPAL THING, THEREFORE, GET WISDOM, AND WITH ALL THY GETTING, GET UNDERSTANDING." (PROVERBS 4:7)

—GROVER M. HERMANN.

Theatre at Wilmington College

The interest in theatre at Wilmington College did not begin in 1947. In 1918, Miss Hazel Easton, a capable and energetic speech and theatre enthusiast, established the first Speech and Dramatics Department. Miss Helen McCoy, a student of Miss Easton at the college, was endowed with this same vitality and sustained that interest by fine productions under adverse circumstances. Her results were so effective that, when she asked to return to private life, Wilmington sought actively a teacher who could give adequate emphasis to the theatre program. That person was Hugh Heiland, employed in 1947 with instructions to build a theatre program at Wilmington College, meet the standards of the past, and develop a greater interest from the exciting things that were happening in present day theatre.

In 1947 the physical plant consisted of a stage in the south end of the gymnasium with a cyclarama of brown velour curtains. There were six spotlights and twenty-four white light bulbs with no means of controlling lights for effect. Two plays were given a year, and the theatre began to grow. As a result of the growing interest in the productions at Wilmington College, a new auditorium was built and dedicated in 1953 with the production of Everyman.

Summer theatre was begun in 1955 and even wider areas of interest were reached. This audience grew in numbers and appreciation each year. With the new plant and with the Summer Theatre more experimentation could be attempted, and new means of presentation and various styles of plays were presented. In 1957 Lewis Marcuson was added to the English faculty to assist in the area of theatre.

A new curriculum was devised whereby a student could major in English with specialty in language and literature or writing or theatre. As a result of such a program, students specializing in theatre produced many one-act plays as a result of their acting courses and directing courses. These were given in addition to the enlarged program of three major three-act productions each year and three or four summer theatre productions.

In sixteen years there have been approximately sixty-five three-act plays and numerous one-act and experimental plays presented. On two occasions the college theatre group has gone on tour in the winter months visiting public and private schools throughout the East with a concert reading of Antigone in one instance and Taming of the Shrew in another. Both these programs were well received and the reputation of the theatre program at Wilmington College has been greatly enhanced.

With this year's revival of Everyman the college shows its appreciation for the high quality of its theatre productions and the cultural advances made for the college and community. We are proud of our theatre at Wilmington College.

WILMINGTONIAN

1964 — YEAR OF THE HERMANN CHALLENGE

The 1964 Wilmingtonian is dedicated to Grover M. Hermann, who, through the Hermann Challenge, has enabled Wilmington College to undertake the greatest effort toward growth in its history. That growth began during the 1963-64 academic year with the construction of the library addition as shown on the preceding page, and with the ground breaking for Hermann Court, the new gymnasium, as shown below.

President James Read and former president, Sam Marble, break ground for Hermann Court.

WILMINGTON COLLEGE WILMINGTON, OHIO

Remarks made by Hugh G. Heiland on the occasion of the ground breaking for the library addition and the first planting in the Hazard Arboretum, Sunday, October 20, 1963.

FRANK O. HAZARD—"His Gift to Life"

Just by mere words, written or spoken, what can one man say about Frank Hazard—that man whose spirit is so deeply felt in all that surrounds Wilmington College? His life is a legacy, a beacon, an inspiration, and the memory of such a life evokes love.

To thousands of persons, he was a modest, unassuming man dedicated to teaching in a field of science which, by its very vastness, engendered him with a humbleness beautiful to feel. To hundreds of young people, Frank was an unbelievable fountain of knowledge that never ceased flowing. He carried no books to his classes. He spoke what he knew—what he loved—what he lived, often emphasizing and enhancing his points with deft manipulations and maneuverings of a piece of chalk. To scores of his colleagues, he is a cause for friendly emulation.

His gift to Life was two-fold. He gave his sterling character and warm friendship on the one hand while on the other, he shared his knowledge with his students and instilled his glowing enthusiasm in the very beings and hearts of all those who knew him. Truly, the Northwind and the Southwind blew on this garden and wafted the fragrance abroad. He sowed seeds; the flowers nourished. Those same blossoms will continue to give forth in an everlasting cycle.

Perhaps today more than at any other time, I am reminded of the words that came from the mighty pen of Daniel Webster when he wrote:

"If we work upon marble, it will perish.
If we work upon brass, time will efface it.
And if we build temples, someday those temples will crumble into dust.
But if we work upon the immortal soul of youth;
If we embue them with spirit, give them a just fear of God
And cause them to love their fellowmen—
We engrave upon those tablets something which will last
Through all eternity."

Today, Frank Hazard lives. May our whispered choruses of "Amen" be cradled in the constant winds of time.

Alumni Directory Draws Favorable Reaction

In December, when the first of the alumni directories were being mailed, Oscar Boyd stopped by to examine a copy. He is shown above with Sally Jo Brommund, applicant for the class of 1968, as Teacher Ellen looks down from her vantage point as if to add her blessing to the project. The directory is designed to give continuity to our alumni program and to keep all of us in touch with our Alma Mater and with each other. We hope in part to fulfill with the directory Teacher Ellen's almost fierce love of the institution and pride in its graduates.

Fund Established For Natural History Museum

Now in his 50th year of service to Wilmington College, Oscar Boyd is devoting a major portion of his time to reorganizing the College's geological collections. Here he is pictured with Doug Selley of Scotch Plains, New Jersey, of the class of '67. It is Oscar's fondest dream that a permanent home be found in a Natural History museum for our geological collection.

Recently, friends and relatives of the late Dr. Kelley Hale established a memorial fund which is to be used for the establishment of the Natural History Museum.

1963-64 was an active year for Wilmington College's 65 students of agriculture. The Agricultural Club hosted the Sixth Annual Wilmington College Livestock Judging Contest. It attracted some 700 young people to the college Townsley Farm for the day's activities. The Aggies also entered a float in the Homecoming Parade, sponsored an intercollegiate dairy judging meet, and held a number of social activities. The year for Delta Tau Alpha Agricultural Honor Society was highlighted by a ten person delegation sent to the national convention in Texas during April.

The Agricultural Department itself sponsored field days in connection with its programs in agronomy, swine research and dairy cattle. Fifteen students held work-study positions on the college's 1000 acre agricultural plant and a number of students held other agricultural work positions.

Art at Wilmington College 1964

PHILLIP P. HODGE
Associate Professor of Art

WALTER C. DREISBACH, JR.
Instructor in Art

This year saw the beginning of an art major in the Department of Art. With a larger number of more serious students in studio courses, the quality of work in painting, sculpture, drawing, and design has increased rewardingly. Work entered in the Fourteenth Annual Exhibition of Student Art revealed a high level of technical proficiency. It was a good year for sculpture students, who produced a substantial amount of good quality sculpture in both traditional carving and modelling techniques, and some very ambitious work in direct plaster. Painting students continued to produce on the level of high quality: increasing use of more professional tools and materials was evidenced. More work in experimental three dimensional design was done this year than ever before. Art students participated in a number of extra-curricular activities, as a result of the re-activation and official recognition of a College Art Club.

This was a particularly stimulating year for both the student and the teaching personnel in the art department. Because the Goals for Americans Program dealt with the humanities, some very fine speakers came to the campus to talk about the fine arts. Among them was Sir Herbert Read, who ranks as one of the leading critics and philosophical writers in the field of fine art.

Art Club

The Art Club is a unique organization, in that it tries to stimulate aesthetic interest on Wilmington's campus: at the same time, it presents variety and color to the surroundings. During the year, the club members participated in art shows that were exhibited on the campus and in neighboring cities. Club members' works were entered in the Home Federal Art Show in Wilmington, the Tri-County Art Show in Cincinnati, and the Fourteenth Annual Exhibition of Student Art at Wilmington College.

In October, the members entered a Halloween window painting contest, held in both the Wilmington Business District and the Plaze Shopping Center. The club has conducted group trips to places of interest, such as The Dayton Art Institute, Gibson Greeting Card Company, and Wayne Green's sculpture studio near Lebanon.

Hollis Summers, poet, novelist, short story author and teacher, appeared in Boyd Auditorium on Oct. 29 under the joint auspices of the Goals Program and the Danforth Visiting Lecturers Project. He lectured on "Art and Creativity."

Summers' work is earning for him a reputation as one of America's outstanding contemporary writers. His poems have appeared in over twenty of the nation's major literary journals and reviews.

His short stories have appeared widely: he has also edited "Kentucky Story," a collection of stories by Kentuckians.

"City Limit," the first of his novels, appeared in 1948 and was subsequently issued in paperback. Other novels include "Brighten the Corner," "The Weather of February," and "Teach You a Lesson."

In addition to his creative writing, Summers has authored "Discussions of the Short Story" and "Introducing Literature."

Wilmington College continued the policy of having a visiting professor in the department of history and government and we were fortunate this year to have Gwilym Usher of Wales continue the high level of scholarship and teaching that professors Grun and Faerkel set in the last two years. The college believes that the visiting professor program enriches all of college life.

Professor Usher has been in great demand as a speaker and has presented several scholarly papers in colleges in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The visiting professor for 1964-65 will be a young man from India and we look for him to show a high level of competence.

Members of the staff attended their usual share of scholarly meetings in the area of history and government and Dr. Gara read a paper at the meeting of the Mississippi Valley Historical Association in Cleveland at the end of April.

Several times during the year the history and government staff held "at homes" meetings where teachers and students had a chance to meet on an informal level and enjoy an evening of fellowship.

The department cooperated with the college to send several students to a conference on Africa, held at the University of Maryland. Five students and Mr. Griffiths also attended a model U.N. Assembly at Michigan State University. The department also helped make possible a delegation of 23 who attended the Annual Conference of the Cincinnati Council on World Affairs.

History majors whose high grades merited admission to Phi Alpha Theta participated in planning for the state-wide meeting of this honorary society held at Wilmington College in April.

The department has broadened its course offerings and is making particular effort to provide seminar and independent study experience for outstanding students. The hope is to move forward rapidly in this particular area.

WILMINGTON PROF'S BOOK IN WHITE HOUSE LIBRARY

"The Liberty Line: The Legend of the Underground Railroad," a book by Wilmington College history professor Larry Gara, is among those named recently for inclusion in the White House library.

The library is designed to be a permanent collection for use by both President Kennedy and future White House occupants. It represents a collection of books on America written by American authors. The library is divided into 32 categories by subject, with Dr. Gara's volume appearing in Chapter VIII, "General History," in the section on "Slavery, The Civil War and Reconstruction." 1,780 titles are included in the library.

Gara's book deals with the myths that have grown up around the so-called "Underground Railroad," which supposedly aided fugitive slaves in escaping to freedom. The author points out the fallacies in the well known legend which has brave white abolitionists aiding helpless slaves in their flight.

Gara is also the author of "Westernized Yankee: The Story of Cyrus Woodman;" "The Baby Dodds Story as told to Larry Gara;" and "A Short History of Wisconsin." He is the author of many articles for historical journals and, together with William B. Hesseltine, wrote a chapter in the book "Antislavery and Disunion, 1858-61; Studies in the Rhetoric of Compromise and Conflict."

Gara graduated from William Penn College in 1947 and received his M.A. degree from Pennsylvania State University the following year. In 1953 he earned his Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin. While at Wisconsin he served as a research assistant in the history department. He had taught at Bluffton College, Mexico City College, Eureka College and Grove City College before coming to Wilmington in 1962. He also served as a visiting professor at the University of Delaware in the summer of 1962.

A Mexican posada formed the Christmas program in the Kelly Religious Center on December 18. The Spanish Department, the Spanish Club, Spanish pupils of Wilmington High School, and a large number of children, sons and daughters of college faculty members, took part.

A posada is a charming procession which represents the search of the Holy Family for shelter.

Children headed the procession, followed by college and high school students and guests, all carrying lighted candles. Two couples carried a litter bearing replicas of the Holy Family. As the procession moved down the aisle, the posada song was chanted.

Dr. Castaneda and Mrs. Paul J. Hunter combined to present the program. Mrs. Hunter was able to secure two authentic Mexican dancers, Senora Susana del Rio de Ivanoff and Senora Luz Arechiga de Velvo. The two young women also sang with their own guitar accompaniment. Dr. Luis Fumero, soloist, accompanied himself on the accordion.

Highlights of the year in the extra curricular Kelly Center Program were:

—Religion in Life Week in November, based on the theme "Relating Ideals to Realities," and led by Dr. J. Robert Nelson of Oberlin School of Theology.

—Weekly tutorial program led by college students for children who, because of personal or family circumstances, needed help with their studies.

—Peace caravans

"Now, haven't I told you boys before . . ."

A MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENT READ TO THE CLASS OF 1964 . . .

I would like to address myself particularly to the Class of 1964. You and I came to Wilmington College together, and our four years have been happy and exciting for me and I believe for most of you. I shall follow your careers with a special interest, as if I really belonged to your class. I will rejoice in your successes and grieve with you in any defeats. But I feel sure you will know how to take failure along with victories and that you will have learned that, more important than any material success in business, in the professions, or the raising of a family, is the service that you render to your God and to your fellow man. I trust you will always remember Emerson's injunction that education is one-third words, one-third worship, and one-third work. The same can be said of life. May you always speak in a style worthy of your alma mater, may you continue the tradition of hard work you have learned here, and in all your individual ways may you keep in touch with the eternal verities.

The Wilmington College soccer team, playing in its third year of inter-collegiate competition, won four games, lost five and tied one. The squad was coached by Stan Bear.

The team had only six returning lettermen, and if it had not been for several injuries to key players a winning season would have been a certainty.

Five team members were particularly outstanding. Rocksy Sturtevant, Gil Coon, and Jack Campbell led the halfback line; and Tim Ombima and Ron Clark were the leading scorers.

Ted Cope starred in the goal as he allowed only 2.7 goals per game to the opposition.

but Finish With 4-5-1 Record

The Record . . .

WC 3, CEDARVILLE 2

The Quakers opened the season by turning back Cedarville in a game where the offense compensated for the lack of good defensive play. Rocksy Sturtevant led the way with two goals. Ron Clark had one.

WC 3, OSU 0

Clark and Sturtevant again scored all the goals as OSU's offensive could not penetrate the Quaker defense led by Ted Cope's shutout.

WC 3, KENYON 0

The soccermen clobbered the Lords for the third successive win with Ron Clark scoring all three goals. This was a heartening victory as Kenyon had beaten Wilmington badly the previous season.

WC 0, BG 0

This contest was marked by outstanding defensive play on the part of both teams. Had the team not been injury ridden they might have won.

EARLHAM 6, WC 2

Arch-rival Earlham left no doubt as they walked off the field after this game. The Quakers were stunned. The only bright spot was Tim Ombima's two goals.

The Record . . .

DENISON 7, WILMINGTON COLLEGE 1

This game was the season lowpoint. The team suffered as a result of injuries, but the real story was told by Denison's superb offense.

WC 5, MT. U. 1

The Wilmington College booters returned to the victory column by overwhelming their foes from the north. The scoring was evenly divided between five players.

O.U. 1, WC 0

Double overtime proved fatal to the Quakers at O.U. Ted Cope played his best game in the goal.

DAYTON 6, WC 2

The season finale was extremely disappointing. Wind and rain completely "bottlenecked" the Quakers. Ombima scored both goals.

BEREA 3, WC 1

The sagging Quakers lost to Berea for the first time in the school's history. The team gave a lackluster performance as Ombima scored the only goal.

Wilmington College finished a highly successful basketball season with a 13 win 6 loss record and a Mid-Ohio Conference basketball championship. The Quakers were 7 and 1 in the conference losing only to Cedarville by one point early in the season. They later avenged this defeat.

The team coached by Fred Raizk highlighted the season by capturing the Mount Union Christmas Tournament defeating Hiram College and the University of Baltimore. Quakers Rex Taylor and Roger Reveal were unanimous all-tournament selections. WC ran up a record-breaking point total as they crushed Earlham College 119 to 88 and later repeated this victory, 88 to 66, at Richmond.

The Quakers were led in scoring this year by their all-Ohio guard, Rex Taylor, who averaged 20.8 points and 7 assists per game. Roger Reveal was second in scoring with an 18.9 average and was also the second best rebounder. Ron Clark, a guard, specialized in defense but still threw in 12 points a game. Bob Brownell, who scored over 20 points in 5 of the last 6 games, averaged 11.2 points a contest and hauled down 12 rebounds per game.

This 1963-64 season closes an era for Wilmington as Rex Taylor, Roger Reveal, Bob Brownell, and Ron Clark have completed their college eligibility. Taylor and Reveal have been starters for three years while Clark and Brownell have been mainstays for two years.

Season Highlights . . .

The Wilmington College netters in 1964 had the best season in the school's history. Besides winning five out of seven season matches they swept to the League title winning three divisions, and placing second in the remaining two.

Peter Sturtevant repeated as the MOC singles champion. He and Jim Barber won the first doubles title. Len Hoge proved the best number two man in the League winning that division.

Much of the credit for the team's success can be given to Coach Harry Johnston.

Wilmington's golfers finished ninth in the nation in the 13th annual NAIA national tournament in Dallas, Tex. This tourney brought together the winners of NAIA district tournaments from throughout the nation. Wilmington won in their own district competition at Springfield.

This is the second year of national competition for the Quakers. The ninth place finish marks the highest achievement by any Quaker athletic squad and capped a very successful season for the clubbers.

THE PRESIDENT

May 11, 1964

Dear Hugh:

You did another noble job on "Paint Your Wagon". Knowing some of the difficulties under which you were personally laboring, we were all the more appreciative of the quality of the actual production.

If I am not mistaken, more students were involved in "Paint Your Wagon" than any other production since I have been at Wilmington College. I am sure they all had a good time and got a great deal out of it. I hope in some way you can convey my congratulations to all of them for a wonderful job that did credit to them and to their college.

Sincerely yours,

James M. Read

A Highlight of Cultural Year

Cincinnati Symphony Presents Brilliant and Inspiring Program

By Charles Fischer

It is difficult at times to keep within the bounds of good taste, and not display too much enthusiasm for art and music. Nevertheless, on this particular occasion, it behooves us to display that particular brand of enthusiasm. The Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra under the distinguished direction of Max Rudolf, presented a concert in Boyd Auditorium, Tuesday Feb. 18, that was a real adventure into a world of reality and too — into a world of dreams.

Music can mean many things to many persons. Music can stimulate cultural environment. It can spell humor, romance, tragedy and sensory perceptions. Music universally speaking, is perhaps one of the greatest sources of recreation given to man by his divine Creator. Music, in a word, is an entity.

Do you prefer the romantic? Do you prefer the classical? Do you prefer the contemporary? The Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra had them all in abundance Tuesday evening, and the capacity aduience gave to Max Rudolf and his orchestra a real ovation. The committee in charge of the Artist Series is to be congratulated. It was a great concert.

Now to confirm our ways in summary of this towering program of musical tone painting. Opening with the Overture to Verdi's only French opera, adapted to a libretto by Scribe "Les Vespres Siciliennes." The opera, an early work with a ponderous six acts, lacks the individuality and sparkle of his later operas. "Les Vespres Siciliennes" is now rarely heard, but all of the best and most dramatically beautiful music is preserved in the "Overture", one of Verdi's finest overtures, which the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra by its brilliant rendition will certainly preserve for posterity.

The almost ethereally beautiful performance of Wagner's "Siegfried Idyll", demonstrated a flawless ensemble control. Scored for small orchestra, the first theme played by strings alone, is derived from Brunnhildes' awakening. The delicate motive for flute suggestive of her slumber is linked contrapuntally by the woodwinds with the opening theme. Later, we hear the love-music, that ends the drama including "Siegfried's horn-call" and the "bird-song motive", all exquisitely woven together. With the exception of the 'cradle song' ("Schlaf mein Kind") all the themes are taken from the opera, "Siegfried". Perhaps the most tenderly beautiful composition in all orchestra literature.

It was in the "Firebird" that Max Rudolph brought to the fore the genius and magic of Stravinsky. This frenzied, exciting and at times almost terrifying score serves the importance of each instrument. Scored for full orchestra, always with a mathematical musical "aim" in mind, Stravinsky never shuns dissonance to achieve his purpose. We inherently sense, and perceptively know that Stravinsky makes his appeal to the senses rather than to the intellect. Consequently, may we say the perennial popularity of "The Firebird", "Petrouchka", and "La Sacre du Printemps."

Max Rudolf achieved a real triumph in the "Allegro feroce", a terrific climax to the infernal dance of the marvelous golden bird with flame dipped plumage. The palm of the evening must go to the "Firebird". Stravinsky, one of the avant-garde of modern music, was severely criticized in Paris at the opening performance of the "L'Oiseau de feu" with its daring orchestral innovations. Today posterity bows to the sensuous harmonies and breath-taking beauty of "The Firebird Suite".

The ever lovely Beethoven "Pastorale," No. 6 in F major, opus 62, was perfect program. A lover of nature, the great composer expressed his feelings. In the imitation of bird calls, the rippling brook, a gay roundelay, and too a real storm, a most exciting and exacting rendition took place. Deep groanings were heard from the basses, a piccolo whistled, kettle drums thundered, cymbals crashed. Trombones blared forth wonderfully— an all amazing and thrilling orchestral feat, but—slowly—calm returned with the Sheppherd's Song. A serene epilogue is heard in the strings and the symphony closes with two resounding chords.

But it was a thrilling storm—that storm from the "Pastorale". We like a good storm occasionally and it was certainly sufficiently Alpine to eliminate any misgivings.

The Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra also presented a delightful children's concert Tuesday afternoon, with assistant conductor Ronald Ondrejka conducting. The children loved it.

Conductor Max Rudolph in a rare moment of relaxation between portions of the symphony program. The violinist second from the podium is Arnold Magnus, former member of the Alard Quartet which was in residence at Wilmington College for several years.

Fever Day

Inherent in the Wilmington tradition is the respect for labor and concern for service to others. Student volunteer programs of labor on campus construction have drawn world-wide attention, as has the work-study program in which more than 40% of the students participate in an alternate days program of work and study. Wilmington College youth are securing their education by helping themselves. This display of self-reliance is refreshing in an age when the attitude of "let someone else do it" prevails.

Although normally considered a "fun day," FEVER DAY is a manifestation or expression of this principle. The first event, in fact, of the day was a work service project on the campus—this year the seeding and grading of Hazard Arboretum.

FEVER DAY is regarded as a healthy and creative outlet for the greatest commodity of youth—abounding energy! Student originated, planned and executed, FEVER DAY is a good example of the Wilmington attitude of getting the job done by doing it.

Members of the Class of 1964 and their guests are cordially invited to the Reception which will be held near Pyle Center immediately following the Commencement ceremonies.

(To many of those attending or participating in this year's graduation ceremonies, the highlight of all the events was the commencement speech by James W. Wadsworth, a man of strong personality, who is a master at combining a sense of high seriousness with a subtle sense of humor. Although he spoke without a written text, he did provide the news sources with a series of excerpts from his speech.)

EXCERPTS FROM ADDRESS, MAN'S ETERNAL QUEST, BY THE HONORABLE JAMES J. WADSWORTH, WILMINGTON COLLEGE, WILMINGTON, OHIO, JUNE 7, 1964.

Man's eternal quest is for betterment: betterment for himself and his children; betterment of his standard of living, of his education, of his physical surroundings, of his comfort, of his health, of his status and prestige. Too rarely can be added the category of betterment of the world he lives in, or betterment of the chances for enduring peace. Yet this last is and will continue to be the ultimate sine qua non of all his other aspirations.

I do not speak of your parents, or of many fortunate people in my generation who have achieved the material betterments in spite of having failed to produce a tension-less, warless world. My generation has produced all the luxuries of living except the assurance that we can continue to live. My generation boasts that the American way of life is the best in the world, but has done precious little to ensure that any of you can enjoy it. My generation has failed you in that.

I speak of man in the generic sense, yet merely to philosophize about these matters is of little value to a graduating class in Wilmington, Ohio, in June of 1964. We should somehow translate the needs of the time into some sort of advice, I suppose, yet advice on a matter so basic to man is not only difficult—it is well nigh impossible. For man is the most quarrelsome of animals, and advice can fall on deaf ears when the pressure is on. Let us try, therefore, to think together, perhaps reason together, rather than indulge in the rather doubtful pleasure of a lecturer-listener relationship.

First of all, we should figure out just what kind of a world we want to live in. I imagine that if you were carefully led to it, most of you would say "a peaceful world." But do any of us know what such a world would be like? What do we mean when we say "a peaceful world?" For unless we know what we want, we can scarcely plan on how we should go about getting it. And that is the tragedy of my generation, just as it has been the tragedy of all human generations since the beginnings of history.

Man has always considered life as a struggle—a struggle against the sabre-tooth tiger, against neighbors, against neighboring tribes, against bow and arrow, gunpowder, TNT, nuclear kilotons and megatons. Life has also been a struggle against poverty, disease, starvation and ignorance. But what a contrast in man's conduct of war against the two types!

For the first type there has been brave and resolute acceptance of death against the known animal and human and mechanical enemy. There has been unquestioning acceptance of physical and industrial and scientific slaughter as the only answer. "We have scarcely begun to fight,"

JAMES J. WADSWORTH

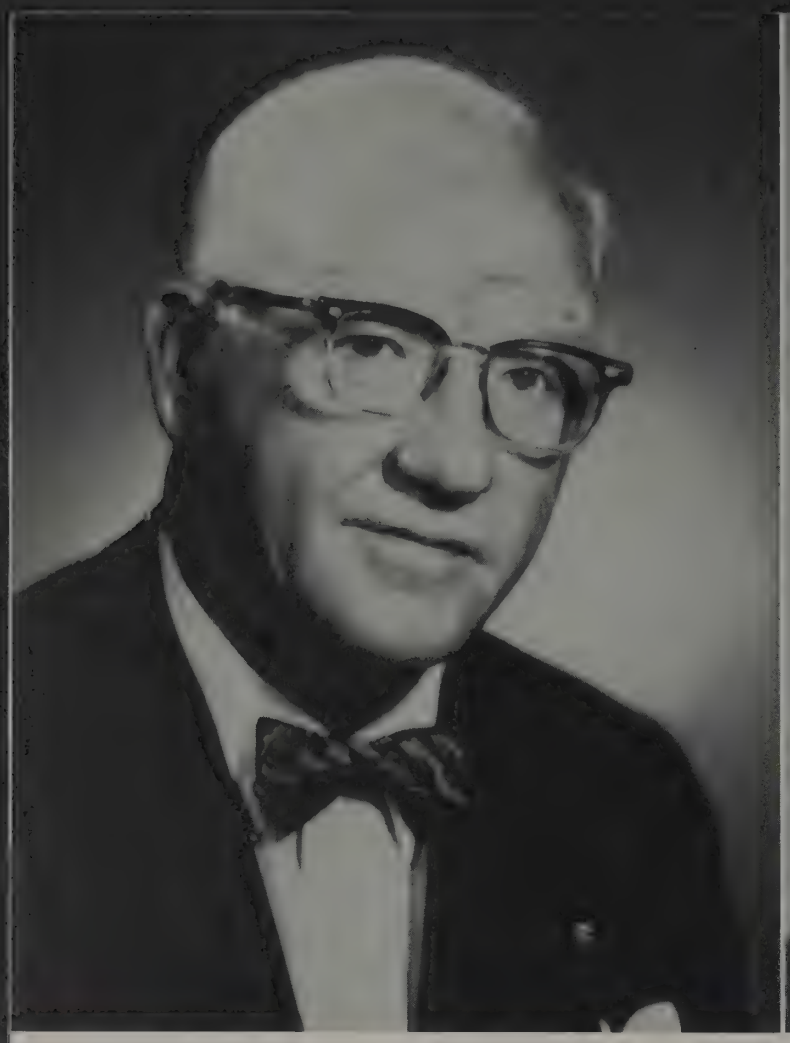
(Department of State Photograph, by Whit Keith, Jr.)

"Don't tread on me," "Give me liberty or give me death," cried our ancestors.

In all four of our service academies last Wednesday important Americans from the President down boasted our brawn, rattled our rockets. During recent months, other highly-placed Americans have advocated the use of atomic weapons against targets ranging from human foes to foliage. One sometimes wonders how far homo sapiens has come.

Contrast this with the patient progress against the other four horsemen mentioned just now. We can't claim victory over poverty, nor can we say we have eradicated ignorance. But great strides have been made. As to starvation, the world's peoples are better off than at any time in history. As to disease, our institutions have nearly wiped out most of the great killers, and are advancing inexorably on the rest. And nowhere among those four horsemen is there any real fear of their return.

War, now—that's a different thing. And if the successful fight against poverty, disease, starvation and ignorance must result in more people in our world, then we must make that much more effort to keep war from undoing all the good, destroying all the progress made. For the more people there are, the greater the danger.



Two recipients (in addition to James Wadsworth) of honorary degrees. Left, James M. Stewart. Right, Harold Evans

The Business Management Team, with total net earnings of $1,188,000, finished a close second, for the second consecutive time, behind the winner, Augustana College of Rock Island, Illinois.

The winner of the business game was in doubt through the final quarter of simulated business activity. During competition Wilmington, Iowa Wesleyan, and Augustana, each held the lead at one time or another. The $89,000 spread between first and third place was extremely narrow considering that the total assets of the top three averaged, at the end of competition, $14,455,000.

The nine participating teams compose what is called the Mid-America Academic Conference. In the competition, which is coordinated by Indiana University, each team is given control of a hypothetical corporation with assets of about $13 million. As an aid in planning their game, teams are also given a relatively accurate business index.

It is each competitor's job to produce and market at least two, and perhaps three, products. All of the teams' decisions are then fed into an electronic computer and it computes which team made how much and why. The computer had previously been programmed to consider all of the variables that enter into the game.

Both the management team members and faculty advisors Drs. Hibner and Giesbrecht were quite pleased with Wilmington's performance. Although the team did not take first place, it scored a moral victory by finishing ahead of last year's winner Iowa Wesleyan. Also, Wilmington's two consecutive second place finishes have made the team the most consistent and highest competitor during the two year life of the competition.

As part of the team's activities of the year they made a trip to the Cincinnati investment house of Haydn-Stone.

WILMINGTON COLLEGE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION MEETING

JUNE 6, 1964

THE GONG OF TIME

by CARL SANDBURG

Time says hush.
By the gong of time you live.
Listen and you hear time saying you were silent long before you came to life and you will again be silent long after you leave it, why not be a little silent now?
Hush yourself, noisy little man.

Time hushes all.
The gong of time rang for you to come out of a hush and you were born.
The gong of time will ring for you to go back to the same hush you came from.
Winners and losers, the weak and the strong, those who say little and try to say it well, and those who babble and prattle their lives away,
Time hushes all.

BILL McDONALD
Assistant

The Mosaic, an independent student literary magazine, came out in February, and a good while thereafter "somehow sold itself into the black."

Mosaic was intended to be a supplement to the college-sponsored Essais—a supplement which would allow much high-quality student writing to appear in print that would otherwise never have known publication.

Other Mosaics will be forth-coming in the near, if nebulous, future, if circumstances permit.
